Digital and the Industry

Denzil Doyle, DEC Canada (1963-1981) writes:
Hi DEC Connection,

Below is a note I wrote years ago that I think DEC Connection readers would find interesting. It is about the first minicomputer sold. It was a PDP-5. The customer was a nuclear reactor laboratory in Canada.

The Beginning of the Minicomputer Era

In 1963, Digital Equipment Corporation installed a control system for a nuclear reactor at the Chalk River laboratories of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. The PDP-5 shown above was the first 12 bit computer supplied by Digital and it was designed specifically for this application. Digital's original plans for a small computer involved a 10 bit computer patterned after the L-1 designed at the MIT's Lincoln Laboratory. AECL insisted on a 12-bit machine because 12-bit analog-to-digital converters were used to collect signals from the reactor. The PDP-5 was succeeded by the PDP-8 which ushered in the minicomputer era a year later. The cabinet to the left of the PDP-5 was required to house an additional 8K of memory (12-bit words) in addition to the 4K contained in the main cabinet. The cost of this installation was about $250,000 (about $2.5 million in 1991 dollars).

* Dick Helliwell reports that he and his family moved from Colorado Springs, CO to Dayton, NV in 2015. rph@stanfordalumni.org

* Michael Temkin writes: These days I am still working for HPE in the Technical Services Support organization, performing network design and configuration work for short engagement, corporate customers. Outside of work I am still an avid baker (when I can) and I have been performing in community theater and choruses for the past 5 years. I am currently with the Gateway Men's Chorus here in St. Louis, MO. michael.temkin@mac.com

* Dale Rutschow sent his membership renewal in with some very sad news: he is in hospice from a form of ALS and Lyme disease. Although he cannot speak, he can communicate via email and would love to hear from former co-workers in the Colorado Springs Gold and NASDAQ support teams (1995-2003), Chapel Hill NC support (1983-1988), and Rockford IL/Chicago (1990-1995) support organizations. Please email him at dalerutschow@comcast.net

* Dave Levy writes: I am the Technology Coordinator for the Pilgrim Area Educational Collaborative in Pembroke, MA. I also do bookkeeping work for Brookwood Community Farm in Milton/Canton MA. Other than that, you can find me riding my bicycle (4,000+ miles last year) and playing with my grandkids. david.alan.levy@gmail.com

* Fred Balfour writes that he and wife Sharon have enriched their retirement by relocating from their 33-year home in Newton to homes near their two daughters and 5 grandchildren in Freeville NY (Ithaca) and Somerville MA. In addition to grandchild time we've enjoyed travel to visit other family and friends, and we participate in book clubs and civic activities. fred.balfour@gmail.com

Sad News Department

Please see note from Dale Rutschow above in Member Newsbytes - he'd love to hear from former co-workers in Chapel Hill NC, Rockford IL/Chicago and Colorado Springs.

Sadly, we have some deaths of former Digital employees to report:

- * Dale J. Roberts, 61, Chandler AZ, 23 Mar 2016
- * Glenn Foley, 65, Marlborough MA, 23 Feb 2016
- * Gino Berno, Macedon and Pittsford NY, 21 Feb 2016

As a result of sending our invoices we were saddened to learn from family of the 2015 deaths of two of our DEC Connection members:

- * Bud (Hilton G.) LaCure, 78, Sudbury MA, 7 Aug 2015
- * John B. Wyatt, 70, Chapel Hill NC, 14 Jul 2015
- Details are on our Memorial Page.
