Note from Ann Hurd:

Obituary for John C. Rodenhiser attached below. John died on July 13, 2016. John joined DEC in 1964 and retired after a 40 year career with DEC/Compaq/HP in 2004. John and I met in early 1982, within the first few weeks I was at Digital—I’d been asked by Andy Knowles to get Rodenhiser to do a leader board for the Marlborough PGA Senior Tour Golf Classic. Let me know if you need anything further.

John graduated from Hudson High School in 1957. He served in the US Air Force for four years, stationed at bases in Texas, Washington state and South Korea. After his military service, he worked for a short time at Raytheon in the Maynard Mill before walking around a chicken wire partition and applying for a position at Digital Equipment Corporation in 1964, starting a 40 year career with Digital/Compaq/Hewlett Packard. He retired in 2004 as a senior systems/software engineering manager, responsible for the a world-class customer benchmark and testing facility known as the HP IQ Center located in Littleton.

John served on the Building Construction Committee for the 2009 renovation and expansion of the Bolton Public Library. He was an avid golfer, but traded in his clubs for a succession of Sabre sloops sailing in Buzzards Bay, Martha’s Vineyard and up the Maine coast. John will be remembered for his propensity to take on any project, whether renovating a house, laying a walk, refinishing furniture, teaching a teenager to drive or programming an electronic leader board for the first Marlborough Classic Senior PGA Tour Event long before they were routinely used by the PGA.

John is survived by his wife Ann S. Hurd of Bolton; three sons David J. Rodenhiser of Somerville; Stephen G. Rodenhiser and his wife Jennifer Couture of Concord and their children Vittoria and Luke; and Alec C. Palmer of Rockport. He was predeceased by his brother Charles.
